Recent Developments

After aggressively raising interest rates in 2018, the U.S. Federal Reserve announced that they no longer planned to raise rates this year and may actually cut rates in the third quarter. This was a major pivot from their previous stance of incremental rate hikes over the last three years and seems to be at least partially driven by prerssure from the Trump administration.

Corporate bonds outperformed U.S. Treasuries as investors reached for higher yields amidst benign inflation. The Fed is encouraged by the growth in household spending and strong labour market. However, in keeping with its dual mandate (maximum employment and stable prices), it is worried about soft business investment and inflation near its threshold of 2 percent.

The Bank of Canada has also kept administered rates on hold in 2019 but seem less inclined to actually cut rates than their counterparts in the U.S. This has started to cause administered interest rates to converge in both countries and provided a recent lift to the Canadian dollar. Meanwhile, the major economies in Europe and Japan are still experimenting with negative interest rates to restart flagging growth. We believe this to be unsustainable.

In this environment both the bond and stock markets did well. This is a puzzle as lower yields in the bond market are normally a signal of a slowing economy. A slowing economy would normally be expected to be negative for corporate profits and, therefore, stock prices. However, equity markets focused on lower interest rates rather than an economic slowdown and continued to rise to new heights.

Canso has concerns about overall market valuations in both equities and bonds and believes that caution is warranted, even though current trends may continue for some time.

Canso has maintained a low weight in high-yield issuers in the Fund, believing the additional yield offered on lower quality credits has declined to the point where, in many cases, it is unattractive. Overall, the Fund's investment grade exposure increased in the first half of the year. The largest purchases in the period were in high quality floating rate notes and AAA rated NHA MBS issues. NHA MBS issues were added to the portfolio on both a floating rate and fixed rate basis. These securities are backed by pools of mortgages and the principal repayment is guaranteed by the Government of Canada.

Canso also believes there is significant price risk in longer maturity bonds from the prospect of rising interest rates. This risk has been moderated by concentrating the Fund's portfolio in bonds with short maturities and floating rate notes. At the end of the period, the Fund was 30% invested in floating rate notes.

There have been no changes to the Manager or Portfolio Manager, or change of control of the Manager, or of the Fund. There have been no actual or planned reorganizations, mergers or similar transactions.

There were no changes to the membership of the Fund's Independent Review Committee ("IRC").

Notes

* The Fund became a reporting issuer on December 30, 2016 and accordingly prior period numbers are not available.

1 The information is derived from the Fund's unaudited semi-annual and/or audited annual financial statements. All per unit figures presented are referenced to net assets determined in accordance to IFRS.

2 Net assets and distributions are based on the actual numbers of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period. This table is not intended to be a reconciliation of beginning to ending net assets per unit.

3 Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units, or both.

4 This information is provided at the end of the period shown.

5 The management expense ratio is based on the total expenses of the period ended and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset values during the period.

6 The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher a fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund. The portfolio turnover rate is calculated based on the lesser of purchases or sales of securities divided by the weighted average market value of portfolio securities, excluding short term securities.

7 The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.
